There is much to cover for the month of June. First up: Thank you to all of the wonderful volunteers who helped with the Library's booth at the Escondido Street Fair. Waddy and Joseph were there early to help set up. Trudy, Dan, Keith, Rachael, and Dennis all took shifts manning the booth throughout the long warm day. Everyone who gave us their email address to sign up for the on-line edition of the Newsletter was entered into a drawing for either a beautiful blooming flower brought by Kathy, or a lovely gift basket which was also arranged by Kathy. (Thanks Kathy!) $5 coupons and hand-made book markers were handed out all day long. We made a lot of new friends who stopped by the booth to see what the Library was all about, as well as running into quite a few old friends who didn't know we were still around!

The annual Picnic will be held off until sometime in July—announcement will be in next month's Newsletter. This year it will be held at the Library as more of a "social" event.

A special welcome is extended to several new volunteers at the Library. Josh's help around the Library has been indispensable. Dennis and Marjorie have joined the Strategic Planning Committee. Marjorie is also handling our E-script program. E-script is a wonderful program where a small percent of the money you spend on certain items at major retailers is donated to a non-profit organization, such as the Library. It doesn't cost you anything! If you'd like more information about signing up for E-script call the Library at 760-745-2724.

The next Philosophical Library Strategic Planning Committee meeting will be on Saturday, June 6th, 12:30 - 3 pm. You do not need a special invitation to attend – everybody welcome! Come and help us "strategize".

New weekly event: Monday Meditation. There are so many ways to define meditation. Let's just take a few minutes to relax and experience the moment. No goals, no expectations, and no experience needed—everyone is welcome. See the write-up under the Monday listings. On Thursdays, come and experience Beak Speak. The Chloe Sanctuary for Parrots and Cockatoos will continue to host a meeting at the Library once a month. See their article under the Thursday listings in this Newsletter.

Rev. Grace Wynands will be at the Library for readings on Wednesdays from 2-5 p.m. You can make your appointment at the Library or just walk-in. The weekly spiritual awareness class is taking a break. During the summer, our spiritual movie night will continue on every first Tuesday of the month from 7-9 pm. We will start our classes again on September 1st, 2009 with Mediumship.

Newsletter Submissions and Scheduling

In order to serve our members, giving enough prior advance notice for events, classes, etc. we MUST have the newsletter ready to be mailed early enough in the month. This means that items for the newsletter need to be submitted by the 10th of the preceding month, allowing for creating, proofreading, revisions, printing, processing, etc. For booking new events, check with Genny Carr at (760) 743-3849 as to availability of dates.

Once your date and time has been established, you need to write a description of the event. This "blurb" should be kept to a reasonable length (75 words or less—see current items) and include a contact person and number and/or e-mail address for further information. You should also indicate whether you will be charging a fee, or if it will be on a donation basis to the Library. Send these blurbs to Jan at janieb@cox.net.

A meeting room is available for those looking for a facility to hold a class, workshop, speaker, etc. The large room fee is $15 per hour, with a two-hour minimum. Small room fee is $10 per hour, with a two-hour minimum. Contact Genny at (760) 743-3849.

Our mission at The Philosophical Library is to provide unique resources for those seeking meaning, wisdom, and self discovery.

"Where spiritual seekers come to meet, learn and grow."

Want to buy: A clean, good condition full or queen bed. Trudy 760-519-2592

It is so beautiful outside right now—let's go for a walk, ok? Wait a second! I have to unplug this laptop. I want to take it with us.

Sit with me here in the garden, on this wooden bench. There! That's nice. It's one of my favorite places out of doors. There's just enough shade to take the edge off the heat. It must be at least 90° this afternoon. Look at all the bees! Have you ever taken the time to stop and watch bees? It is fascinating as they float around, dancing about one bloom before flying off to another. They seem quite taken with the Purple Sage, that plant with the long stems and bright bluish-purple flowers. And the Rock Rose with its fuchsia blooms draws a lot of them, too.

Do you remember a couple of years ago bee keepers started to notice a great decline in their honey bees? Scientists were also concerned at what they were seeing. The honey bee population was dropping at an alarming rate. Last I heard they were still looking for the exact cause and what could be done. Look at those bees. They're so small, but without them there would be no pollination for the majority of our plants and crops. If there were no bees, our food supply would be devastated. That made me think, just now, how we are all so interdependent. Not only on nature, but each other. I would not be here discussing this if it were not for you being here with me. I couldn't pump gas if not for the station attendant, the person working the oil drill, all of the truckers, etc. I would not have food without the aforementioned food supply beginning with farm workers and ending at the local farmer's market or grocery store. But you see, it's not the business or corporation I depend on. It is the person doing the job—that guy bagging the groceries, paying his rent, standing in line just like you and I do. Puts kind of a different twist on the Oneness I've written about before, yes?

I don't know most of those people, but they are far more like you than one may realize. They want to be listened to, to be understood. They have families or loved ones, and friends and belong to organizations like many of us. They may live alone and watch TV. No matter, those differences are just perceptions. They are also a beautiful, complete, Whole Being with the desires and fears and experience of being human just the same as you. And like you - they are a unique aspect of the Perfect Universe. In that way there is no difference between that person and you. Feel that for a few seconds. It takes a while. Have you realized that you are not the only one who is simply doing what you do, as all of us humans do? Maybe you categorize others and judge them and yourself needlessly. Have you yet realized that you are perfect just the way you are? Yes, I mean YOU. Life presents itself in a way that shows each of us – not what is wrong with one – just the mistaken thoughts and perceptions in a world that is by its very being, Perfection.

Let's go in the house. It's getting hot and I would enjoy a cool water. And I have to wrap up this article or our Editor Jan will make me cut back the length! Ha! Thanks for coming along. Watch out for the bees, they sting.

Blessings ~ Ron (ron@leejen.com)

Few movements in American social and intellectual history have been as influential as the cluster of ideas we have come to call Transcendentalism. This is a Teaching Company DVD series taught by Ashton Nichols, Ph.D., Dickinson College. Join us for this insightful opportunity and a lively discussion following. Library donation. Beak Speak

Thursday, June 18, 7:00 p.m.

The Chloe Sanctuary for Parrots and Cockatoos hosts a meeting about living with parrots as companions. Parrots are much more than animals who are pretty, talk or dance. They are as intelligent as chimpanzees and challenging to live with for that reason. Still wild animals, we often find these magnificent creatures locked in back rooms because they scream or bite and their human companion has almost nowhere to go for help. We have much to share about parrot training, living with parrots, nutrition, foraging, toys, behavior issues such as screaming or biting, and creating a friendly environment. Please rsvp as seating is limited. Call 760-755-7317, Email fatherdon@chloesanctuary.org. Library donation.
